RE: June Update to CPNP-AC Exam Suspension for Potential Hires

Dear Employer,

The CPNP-AC exam was suspended on February 13, 2019 when evidence of an exam content breach was discovered. To maintain the integrity of the exam program, a completely new exam following the same content outline launched April 15th with a 3-week testing window, which ended May 5th.

As noted in previous employer letters, candidate pass/fail status was not immediately available at the testing site for the new exam. We anticipate that official score results will be released on approximately June 15.

Retest candidates and candidates who applied after the April-May window deadline will be offered the next testing window, which is August 1 through November 22, 2019. During that window, candidates will receive official pass/fail status from PNCB via email within 2-3 weeks.

Thank you for your understanding and patience. Please contact PNCB at exam@pncb.org with any questions.

Sincerely,
PNCB Customer Service
